STEAM TRAIN RELEASES (EXCLUSIVE TO MOVIELAND)

PLYMOUTH TO BRISTOL 1985

Easter Sunday 1985 at Plymouth Station. Crowds throng around the steam train ready to leave for Bristol. Many films have been made of steam specials but few actually use the views of the passengers on board to tell the story. Unique footage of a rare event.

SHADOWS ON THE MOOR

Back in the early 50s a steam train used to run across Dartmoor from Yelverton to Princetown. It passed the great lake of Burrator and climbed so high that it was the highest working branch in the British Isles. We went back to countryside of Dartmoor and filmed the places where the track used to be, and with a series of flashbacks with unique black & white footage the film shows how the train looked all those years ago ploughing its way through the snow.

THE HOLIDAY LINE-TORBAY TO KINGSWEAR

Paignton is a busy seaside holiday resort and this is reflected in the popularity of the Torbay & Dartmouth Railway. The journey from Paignton to Kingswear embraces some beautiful old railway architecture with viaducts, cuttings and bridges still in tact. Take a steam train trip in this exclusive film.

CORNISH FREIGHT LINES

Destroy or create? Demolish or preserve? Cornwall at one time had a complete web of freight lines used mainly for transporting china clay. This little film takes a look at what has happened to those old lines and shows some of the steam engines still at work in certain areas.

BRANCH LINE SUPREME-THE DART VALLEY

From Buckfastleigh to Totnes runs the Dart Valley Railway - a near re-creation of this Great Western Railway branch line as it once was. Authenticity is the keynote of the DRV philosophy. In this film we follow the steam train, firstly to the River Mardle and then the Nursery Pool Bridge crossing the Dart itself. Much of the line follows the natural curves of the river until Totnes is reached.

THE OTHER FILM WORLD

A great Look at Life production. Hundreds of films are made every year that do not hit the cinema. This little film investigates how 35mm and 16mm films have been produced over the years to record operations, scientific experiments, and weapon effects. The film closes with a look at a projection room in the West End.

Look at Life takes us behind the scenes of a car production in the 1950's. From its design to the testing, we hear from its designer and distributor. Rather than the mass production of today, the earlier cars were lovingly created with individual style and this film shows how.
